Insurances.

HE HONGKONG FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, LIMITED.

CAPITAL 2,000,000 DOLLARS, in 2,000 Shares of 1,000 Dollars each.

> Consulting Committee:-GEORGE F. HEARD, ESQ. WM. KAYE, Esq. R. ROWETT, Esq. S. D. SASSOON, ESQ. F. Buxey, Esq.

General Managers, -- Mosers Jandine, MATHESON & Co.

Head Office, No. 39, Queen's Road.

HE HONGKONG FIRE INSURANCE COM-PANY, which expires by effluxion of time in a few months, having proved highly successful undertaking, it has been determined by a large number of its shareholders to form a permanent Company under the same management and with increased Capital.

It is proposed to register the Company under the Limited Liability Ordinance, and the amount of the Capital having been fixed at Two Millions of Dollars, it is considered that Insurers will be amply secured thereby, while at the same time each shareholder will know the extent of his individual liability. The capital proposed to be called up amounts to a large sum, and provision will be made for the creation of an ample Reserve Fund, which will, it is expected, in a very short time accumulate to an amount practically to give the fullest security both to Insurers and Insured, irrespective of the unpaid Capital It is intended to anticipate the termination of the Old Company, by dissolving it from and after the 31st December next, and measures are being taken for that purpose. In anticipating a successful career for the New Company, it is only necessary to present to the public the results of the Old Company since its establishment in May

The total premiums collected from the 11th May 1866 to the present time, a period of only two years and five months, amount to ......$304,727.7 The losses which have been paid within the same period have amounted to......$130,081.22 and include the large sum of $85,270 lest by the Fire at Hongkong in Nov. 1867. The amount now at the Credit of the Working Account, after paying all Expenses and Re-insurances to date, exceeds.....$160,000.0

These figures fully warrant the most sanguine expectations of success, and it is out reasonable to expect that, strengthened with larger Capital, the present undertaking cannot fail to prove at least as successfu as the former one. The Old Company when it entered the field, bad to create business for itself, but the New one, in taking over the outstanding risks and connections of the Old Company, will at once receive a very large amount of premium and enter on a profitable and organised business. Moreover, there is no doubt that the risk of Fire in Hongkong has been greatly diminished by the Building Regulations now in force, and by the establishment

The following are the main features of the New Company:

A first Call of $100, to be paid upon each share on allotment, and a further Call of $100 to be paid in Six Months all further Calls to be determined upon at General Meetings of the shareholders Interest at 12 per cent per annum to be in the first instance allowed on the paid up Capital, such Interest to be payable half-yearly, on 30th June, and 30th Decomber. HONGKONG, TUESDAY, JAN. 19, 1869.

THE LAW OF LIBEL. THE Lord Chief Justice of England in the Court of Queen's Bench, on November 28, gave judgment in the case of Wason v. Walter, the effect of which is that a newspaper publishing a report of Parliamentary proceedings is, even if it contain defamatory matter, privileged against an action for libel. This decision overrules the celebrated opinion of Mr Justice Littledale in Stockdale v. Hansard, and considering that the House in theory forbids the presence of reporters, is (says the Spectator) regarded by some lawyersus rather a strong specimen of judge-made law. The Lord Chief Justice, however, in delivering judgment, laid great stress on the necessity of interpreting laws in accordance with the civilization of the age, and of preserving that adaptability to circumstances which is the credit of the English Common Law. This is all wise, provided the judge is a man who knows how to distinguish between a real change in the temper of the times, and a mere surge of popular feeling. All judges do not; nor, we may add, do all acting attorney generals. The decision has a special interest for us personally, and it is not unimportant to the public, for less than thirty years ago the English Judge above referred to decided adversely to their interests. He said, "As to the general information to be given to the public of all that is going on in Parliament, I cannot conceive upon what ground that can be necessary." The opinion of another judge was equally strong on the same side. The present Lord Chief Justice, speaking with the full concurrence of his brethren Lush, Hannen, and Hayes, now says,

The main question for our decision is whether a faithful report in a public newspaper of a debate in either house of parliament, containing matter disparaging to the character of an individual, as having been spoken in the course of the debate, is actionable at the suit of the party whose: character has been called in question. Weare of opinion that it is not.

criticism, that it will be interesting to pointing out that the precise question in issue—the question whether a report of parliamentary proceedings is privileged -had never been decided in a court of justice, and in order to show this he discusses at length several "conflicting and inconclusive" data of different judges more or less bearing upon the subject each of which has to be carefully looked at in the light of the special circumstance under and with reference to which it was delivered. He canvasses in this manner the language of Mr Justice Wightman in Dawson v. Duncan, that of Mr Justice Littledale and Mr. Justice Patteson in Stockdale v. Hansard, that of Lord Kenyou in R. v. Wright, and various other things said by other judges in other cases, showing with respect to all of them in turn that they do not precisely meet the particular point which had at last arisen for decision in Wason v. Walter. He then proceeds to have recourse to 'principle and analogy," and he bases his judgment on two principles-first, that the publication under the circumstances was not "malicious" according to the best definitions of malice. Referring to the standard definition of Mr Justice Bayley, which is in substance that malice is a distinct intention to do an illegal act, or that it is that state of mind which the law presumes to accompany such an intention, he observes that the presumption of malice may be rebutted by circumstances, and that the circumstances which rebut the presumption. of malice constitute a case of privilege; such for instance is the case of publish.

enough to cover not only the case of the unblication of trials, but that of the publication of parliamentary reports as well. He dismissed the second. surely the more important branch of the case, much more briefly. Without examining at any great length into the authorities upon the subject, he laid down broadly that, the report being privileged, comments upon it not expressly malicious were privileged as well, and that comments made with an honest belief of their truth, founded upon and proceeding from reasonable grounds for belief, would not be expressly malicious. Such is a fair summary, as we find it in a London journal, of this judgment, but there is one portion of the latter that we must copy in extenso for the sake of the lesson it conveys to certain lawyers who practise in courts very far removed | Formosa, and the natives don't sing-to from Westminster :-

Our law of libel has in many respects only gradually developed itself into anything like a satisfactory and settled form. The full liberty of public writers to comment on the conduct and motives of public men has only in very recent times been recognised. Comments on government on ministers and officers of state, on members of both houses of parliament, on judges and other public functionaries, are now made every day which, half a century ago, would have been the subject of ex officio informations, and would have brought down fine and imprisonment on publishers and authors. Yet who can doubt that the public are gainers by the change, and that, though injustice may often be done, and though public men may often have to smart under the keen sense of wrong inflicted by hostile criticism, the nation profits by public opinion being thus freely brought to bear on the discharge of public duties.

For the present we abstain from applying these observations to the case in which the defendant in Regina v. Saint is so closely concorned; but their meaning and effect, in relation to that case. cannot well be exaggerated.

It is evident that at home the British Crown allows the free exercise of fair criticism on the acts of its servants, and we may presume that it would not fetter that right at the solicitation of a foreign In Her Majesty's Colony of Hongkong a different theory has been but into practice, to the injury of a British subject. The Attorney General here is not yet liable to censure for such an inconsiderate act, inasmuch as it was done during his absence; but the Hon. Pauncefote must see that he should either go on with Regina v. Saint to an end, or at once withdraw the prosecutions. If he does neither, the defendant must identify him with this foolish procedure from the beginning. Under no circumstances and there is a reason for our saying so much oan the case settled out of Court, or in any way compromised.

WE have received the December number of the Chinese Recorder, which maintains its interesting character. Mr Wylie's article on the Bible in China is concluded working men who have devoted their energies to translating the scriptures into the Chinese language. Mr Wylie's sketch is very fair, neither overlooking the undoubted services rendered by such men, or indulging in the fulsome praise of their productions which some years since seemed to be the prevalent mode of noticing any literary efforts from Missionary sources. "T. W.'s" sketch of Lao-tzse is continued, and is probably the most popularly interesting of the chapters as yet published. A sketch of travel between Peking and Kalgangiving however but little new information beyond that already published-completes, with other papers on exclusively missionary subjects, the number before us. As likely to become a valuable repertory not merely to the missionary but to the secular resident in China, we wish this unpretending periodical every We might suggest the publication in an early number of a well digest- His Honor did so, and drew the defended resumé of Protestant Missions in China with tabular statements of stations, churches, schools, converts, funds, &c. As a record of missionary work on any given day-say 31st March nextsuch a paper would possess much value as a future record. But it must exhaustive and complete, its particulars each station. Prussia has hit upon an ingenious idea which, while it will probably excite a smile, has really something in it. A chair of "Colonization" has been founded, and Dr Bastian, the well-known visitor to these parts, has been appointed the first professor. In view of this selection are we to infer that Prussia entertains views of colonization in the Eastern seas ? A great deal of nonsense was talked about Prussian designs upon Formoss, but it nevertheless indicated, by the publicity it gained in European journals, that some slight foundation of fact was at the bottom of the reports circulated. As to that delectable island we imagine that few other nationalities would object to seeing Prussia establish a colony on it if she can and so ittoreasing its importance, but the realization of the idea is more than unlikely, even were China perfectly ready to cede any of her territory or allow fresh "settlements" to be formed in as yet unoccupied localities. Yet there is scarcely any other part of the world but China or Japan, in which we can conceive Prussia entertaining ideas of settling colonies But while devoting her attention to colohization perhaps it would be well that the should devote a little attention to
